

DEAR PARENTS AND CARERS

Last Friday, we were delighted to welcome colleagues from the Lighthouse Schools Partnership (CEO Gary Lewis and Director of Secondary Education Natalie Wilcox), alongside our Chair of Governors, Helen Hall, for a School Improvement Partner (SIP) visit. The focus of the day was on how well we support our priority learners, including pupils with SEND and those eligible for pupil premium funding. Visitors spoke very positively about how well staff know their students and recognised inclusive practice as a real whole-school strength. They noted the consistent use of adaptive teaching and thoughtful “micro-adaptations” in lessons, alongside strong relationships, effective questioning and regular checks for understanding. Inclusion beyond the classroom was also highlighted as an area of excellence, with targeted support continuing to improve attendance, engagement and a strong sense of belonging, particularly for our younger pupils.

During the visit, Year 7 pupils spoke confidently and positively about the support they receive and clearly understood how this is gradually stepped back as they become more independent. They valued the additional transition visits, which helped them settle quickly, and commented on the benefits of being mobile-phone free in helping them build friendships and communicate well. Year 11 pupils were equally positive, feeling well supported and well prepared, with the only suggested improvement being more walking, talking mock examinations.

I would like to thank all of the students who contributed so thoughtfully to the visit, whether through student voice panels or by welcoming visitors into their lessons. Their openness, confidence and positivity were a real credit to the school.

Yours sincerely,

Ms L Blundell, Headteacher

THE MASKED SINGER

Wow! Thursday lunchtime was an absolute showstopper, with our first ever staff Masked Singer event proving so popular that we (sadly!) had to turn students away because the room was completely full. As part of our inter-house competition, each house fielded a panel of detectives, eagerly trying to guess the identities of the mystery singers hidden behind some truly brilliant costumes. The atmosphere was buzzing, the performances were hilarious and impressive in equal measure, and the costumes were unforgettable — if you haven't spotted them on our Facebook page yet, they'll be appearing very soon! Huge thanks go to the fearless staff performers (Mr Thomas, Mr Hutchinson, Mr Earle, Mrs Bernard and Mr Hemmings) for throwing themselves into the fun, and an extra-big thank you to Mrs Pope for organising such a joyful, memorable event.

ONLINE RESPONSIBILITY, CONSENT AND RESPECT

Please remind your child that they are legally responsible for what they post online, including content created with AI. Sharing images, videos, messages, or AI-generated material about someone without their consent can be harmful and may break the law.

Posting false statements that damage someone's reputation can be defamation, and content targeting someone because of race, religion, disability, gender, or sexual orientation may be considered harassment or hate-related behaviour under UK law. Using AI does not remove responsibility.

Talking with your child at home – as we do at school - about consent, respect, and protected characteristics is vital in helping them make safe and responsible choices online.

AI does not remove responsibility

- Using AI tools to generate images, text, or videos does not make content anonymous or consequence-free.
- Young people are responsible for how AI tools are used and for the impact of what they share.

Why conversations at home matter

- Many young people do not fully understand that online actions can have real legal, school, and personal consequences.
- Talking at home about consent, respect, and protected characteristics helps young people make safer choices online.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS NEEDED TO SHAPE WELLBEING AT GORDANO SCHOOL

Fabienne Vailes, a PhD student at the University of Bristol, is researching how schools can better support student wellbeing and we are recruiting students and staff to co-create this research.

Who can take part?

We are looking to recruit Students in Years 7–11. Their experiences make them experts on what helps or gets in the way of wellbeing at school.

What is involved?

- Students will be invited to join three Talking Circles (about 1 hour each) to share their thoughts.
- Later, students will help to discuss their ideas with school staff and contribute to a plan to improve wellbeing in our community.
- A final meeting will review what we have learned - and we will also share the final published research with parents.
- Student privacy is protected:

Sessions are recorded securely, but names and details will not be used in any reports.

Participation is completely voluntary, and students can withdraw at any time.

Benefits:

- Students will have a say in our school
- Students will build skills in sharing ideas, oracy and thinking deeply
- Students will receive £5 per Talking Circle (up to £15 total)

Questions?

We will be inviting students to some lunchtime information sessions to publicise this project (the first is lunchtime on Wed 28th January. A parent information sheet is linked Parent Information Sheet to answer any questions you may have about your child's involvement. If you have any further questions or queries, Fabienne is also happy for you as a parent to contact her as well as her supervisors:

- Dr Lucy Kelly – lucy.kelly@bristol.ac.uk
- Dr Kate Carr-Fanning – kate.carr-fanning@ucd.ie

If your son or daughter opts into this research, we will be in touch to ask for your consent. Our aim is to run the sessions in Terms 3 and 4 and so avoid important Year 10 and 11 exam dates.
